Holiday Leftovers

FOR LESS

No firm that carries as large a holiday line as we, expects to have it completely exhausted, and while our fine assortment and low prices resulted in the largest holiday trade in the history of the store, still the demand ran pretty evenly in most lines, so that we still have a good assortment to choose from. There are several very good reasons why we do not want to carry this stock over until next year, and so have determined to sacrifice it now:

- 1st. There is a decided advantage in having an entirely new stock each year.
 - 2nd. We never sell old goods at the price of new.
 - 3rd. We don't want to involve all the goods left over.
 - 4th. We haven't room to store them all if we wanted to.
 - 5th. We prefer to sell them at a sacrifice and have the use of the money.
- Accordingly every item that can be classed as holiday goods will be sold at cost.

HERBERT S. BIGELOW
PREACHES SOCIAL REFORMS.

Compares Modern Governments With the Unselfish Teachings of the Nazarene—Says the Nations Should Practice Brotherhood as Well as Preach It—Suggests a "Sermon on the Mount" to Date.

Cincinnati, Dec. 27.—Herbert S. Bigelow, pastor of the Vine Street Congregational church, discussed in his Christmas sermon, the changes that would take place if human society were really to be governed by the ethical teachings of Jesus.

Suppose, said Mr. Bigelow, we had for president a modern counterpart of Jesus. Suppose that in a moment of frenzy, such as may have occurred on Palm Sunday, the people were to declare for a man of such a character. How long would it be before congress would be clamoring for his impeachment, and the men who helped elect him warming their hands at the fires of plutocracy, declaring that they never voted for him?

With society as it is, it may be possible that Mr. Roosevelt is a better president than Jesus would be. But suppose society were so transformed that Christian policies would be practicable. Suppose men were ready to uphold the hands of a Christian president.

In a message sent by a Christian president to a Christian congress, elected by a truly Christian people, I fancy there would be a paragraph on the subject of war. It would be very short and to the point. It would read something as follows:

"Let us make this the greatest day in history since the birth of Christ. Today, let us put up our swords and love our enemies. Now at last, let there be peace on earth and good will to men."

Put along side of that a sentence taken from the last message of President Roosevelt:

"But most of all we need to continue building our fleet of battleships so powerfully armed that they can inflict the maximum of damage upon our opponents, and so well protected that they can suffer a severe hammering in return without fatal impairment of their ability to fight and maneuver."

President Roosevelt has rightly said that the all-important question today is the industrial question. "Give us this day our daily bread," is the prayer of the million that is still unanswered. When we are ready for a Christian settlement of the industrial problem, the president's message will read as follows:

Sermon on the Mount to Date.

"Widespread misery is proof that society is organized on a foundation of injustice. The basic injustice is this: Each generation that comes upon the earth finds that a few of their number have the right, by virtue of title deeds bequeathed by dead men, to deny the rest the use of the earth. Since the children of each generation must live on the earth or perish, it follows inevitably that the decreasing number in each generation who own the earth have an increasing power legally to rob the rest of the fruits of their labor. Thus brotherhood is denied by the law of the land and poverty is thoughtlessly regarded as a necessary evil. Therefore let us modify our laws of land tenure in such a way as to secure to each man, during his sojourn on the earth, his equal right with all the rest, to use those raw materials which Nature provides.

Thus we shall build our society on the foundation of the golden rule and every other problem will be easier of solution. Then, when there is no legal privilege to make idleness respectable, men will be rewarded according to their labor and the servant will be first in the honor of mankind."

Two Gifts for the World.

If for the asking I could have the Christmas present I most covet, I would ask for the power to make the world two gifts.

I would give to the world a new heart, in which the desire for mastery should be utterly vanquished and brotherhood should reign supreme. Then I would give to the world the economic understanding to make effective this spirit of brotherhood in laws that would destroy all forms of privilege and establish industrial equity and peace.

"Nettie, the News Girl."

As a play, few of native make have been more forcefully dramatic or has more deftly combined the elements which appeal to the emotions, than the story of "Nettie, the News Girl," which appears at the Frazer, December 31. Truly harmonious in its construction, pathetic, lovable and humorous, appealing in detail to all alike, the young and old, the careless, those who joy or weep, all who have witnessed this drama will have felt a mighty influence from a mighty play.

A Frightened Horse.

Running like mad down the street, dumping the occupants, or a hundred other accidents, are every day occurrences. It behooves everybody to have a reliable valve handy and there's none as good as Bucklen's Arnica Salve. Burns, cuts, sores, eczema and piles disappear quickly under its soothing effect. 25c at Tallman & Co.'s drug store.

SEUFERT STOPS GAMBLING.

Told The Dalles Proprietors He Would Sell Their Paraphernalia.

"It's no trouble to stop gambling," said F. A. Seufert, mayor of The Dalles, last evening to the Chronicle, and he proceeded to tell how he ran the gamblers out of his town without making a single arrest or spending a single dollar of the taxpayers' money. "When I went into office of mayor," continued Mr. Seufert, "I was told that gambling was necessary and that the town couldn't get rid of it. Well, and his honor took a deep breath, 'I had them packed away in no time at all.'"

"How did you do it?" was asked. "Simply ordered them to shut up shop," responded Mr. Seufert laconically. "A game was running in nearly every saloon in town. I told them that I wasn't going to be hard on them, but that they must look out so they didn't get caught. I'll confiscate everything in sight," I said, 'wherever I find gambling. I'll strip the carpet off the floor and the pictures off the wall, and seize your roulette wheels and beer glasses, bar and all, and auction them on the street corner to the highest bidder. Then you can sue the city to recover and run up against a taxpayers' jury.'"

"That was the way to settle those fellows," went on the mayor. "Our town is better off than ever, and we used to hear that gambling was necessary to its prosperity. We used to have 15 or 20 tinhorn gamblers hanging round the town; now we haven't any."

Mr. Seufert has the saloons so well in hand that no brawls or "rough houses" have occurred since he took hold of the reins of government. "I told them, each and every one," said he, "that their licenses would be confiscated at the first indecent or lawless act. That's the way to deal with those fellows."

SCOTT'S EMULSION

makes pale, thin children fat and chubby. Overcomes wasting tendencies and brings back rosy cheeks and bright eyes.

It's surprising how quickly children respond to Scott's Emulsion. It contains just the element of nourishment their little bodies need. They thrive on it.

Even a few drops in the baby's bottle have a noticeable effect for good. Nothing better than Scott's Emulsion for growing children.

TRAINING SCHOOL FOR HORSES

Wanted—One hundred head of unbroken horses. I am located for the winter at the Dutch Henry feed yard, corner of Alta and Lillith streets, where I conduct a first-class training and sale stable. If you want to buy a horse I will take your order and select the best horse for you, or if you have a horse to sell I am well acquainted with the best buyers. I am well equipped to break and handle any horse from the finest blooded stock to the wildest and most desperate broncho. There is no horse but can be broke and be made to drive or work nicely if he be handled correctly. I have broke one hundred and twenty-three head in Pendleton, some of which had become desperadoes. I guarantee satisfaction in every case.
